Dear Sir: I have been dealing with the computer makers, software producers since 1969. Thats right 32 years ago. During the last 10 years, Microsoft corporation has done everything it could to help this country rise in its computer usage and availability to the common public. They should be given a medal for their achievements. To continue any form of prosecution is outrageous. We should help and support the Microsoft company, instead of stealing their assets for political gain. If the States need money, they should tax all the people in their state to acquire funds and not join a bandwagon of bandits. Sincerely yours,
Stanley R. Droy
